I would not recommend this if you were trying to learn Arabic for travel as it doesn't contain everything that you need. I have decided to take an actual Arabic language course instead of relying on books. My Lebanese husband says the book is a nice start and that what is written in the book is pretty accurate as far as pronunciation goes. Price is nice. Yes, I would recommend it. 11 of 12 people found the following review helpful. innovative easy method for learning Arabic quickly By Teva Ben Shlomo I purchased this book because I treat patients in their homes. Some of my patients speak no English. in this small, well organized book, Mr. Nitzany provides a simple and innovative method of learning the basics of spoken Arabic quickly and efficiently. he apparently has done extensive research in compiling the most commonly used words and phrases and he utilizes a strategy of continuous building upon what you have already learned!!!! Recommend this book for anyone needing to acquire some basic conversational skills quickly 6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. An extremely useful educational tool By Matthew Ackerman An extremely useful educational tool. The simplicity of its instruction has motivated me to seek out Mr. Nitzany's other published works.

THIS BOOK DOESN'T CONTAIN ANY ARABIC LETTERS! ALL ARABIC WORDS IN THIS BOOK WERE WRITTEN IN ENGLISH-TRANSLITERATION! IF YOU NEED EXTRA ASSISTANCE IN THE PRONUNCIATION THEN PLEASE PURCHASE THE AUDIBLE VERSION! Have you always wanted to learn how to speak the Lebanese Arabic Dialect but simply didn't have the time? Well if so, then, look no further. You can hold in your hands one of the most advanced and revolutionary methods that was ever designed for quickly becoming conversational in a language. In creating this time-saving program, master linguist Yatir Nitzany spent years examining the twenty-seven most common languages in the world and distilling from them the three hundred and fifty words that are most likely to be used in real conversations. These three hundred and fifty words were chosen in such a way that they were structurally interrelated and, when combined, form sentences. Through various other discoveries about how real conversations work, discoveries that are detailed further in this book, Nitzany created the necessary tools for linking these words together in a specific way so that you may become rapidly and almost effortlessly conversant now. If your desire is to learn complicated grammatical rules or to speak perfectly proper and precise Arabic, this book is not for you. However, if you need to actually hold a conversation while on a trip to Lebanon, to impress that certain someone, or to be able to speak with your grandfather or grandmother as soon as possible, then the Nitzany Method is what you have been looking for. This book is recommended for those who already have some prior knowledge of the pronunciation of Arabic accents (such as the Arabic accents: ayin, ghayn, ha, and khaf). For those of you who do not, this book does indeed provide some great, in-depth techniques on the pronunciation and recognition of these accents, that you will encounter throughout the program. These techniques have proven extremely beneficial for beginner students who were previously unfamiliar with these accent pronunciations. But keep in mind this isn't a pronunciation book! Lebanese Arabic encompasses three slightly different dialects, the dialects of the north, south, and center of the country (Beirut). The one in this book is the Beirut dialect. In the Lebanese dialect, verb conjugation is irregular, and this book will not teach you those skills since this is not a grammar book. In most languages, including Classical Arabic, a conjugated verb is always followed by an infinitive verb, but this is not the case in the Lebanese colloquial dialect since every verb in the sentence must be conjugated. Keep in mind that Lebanese Arabic is not an official language, but rather is a colloquial dialect. The purpose of my method is solely to give you the tools to create your own sentences in order to become conversational, while in regards to grammar, pronunciation, etc., you are on your own! This method is designed for fluency in a foreign language, while communicating in the first person present tense. Nitzany believes that what's most important is actually being able to understand and be understood by another human being right away. Therefore, unlike other courses, all words in this program are taught in English transliteration, without having to learn the complex alphabet. More formalized training in grammar rules, etc., can come later. This is one of the several, in a series of instructional language guides, the Nitzany Method's revolutionary approach is the only one in the world that uses its unique language technology to actually enable you to speak and understand native speakers in the shortest amount of time possible. No more depending on volumes of books of fundamental, beginner, intermediate, and advanced levels, all with hundreds of pages in order to learn a language. With Conversational Arabic Quick and Easy, all you need are forty-five pages. Learn Arabic today!

From the Author People often dream about learning a foreign language, but never do. Whatever the reason is, it's time to set it aside and with my new method, you will have enough time and you will not fail. You will actually learn how to speak the fundamentals of the language, and speak the language fluently in as little as a few days. Of course you won't speak perfect Arabic at first, but you will certainly gain significant proficiency. For example, if you travel to the Lebanon or an Arabic Speaking country, you will almost effortlessly be able engage in basic 'fluent' communication with the locals, and you will no longer be intimidated with culture shock. It's time to relax. Learning a language is a valuable skill and a form of communication that connects people of multiple cultures around the world. How does my method work? Well, I have taken twenty-seven of the most used languages and distilled out of them the 350 most commonly used words in any language. This whole process took three years of observation and research, and during that time I have determined which words I felt were most important for this method of basic 'fluent' communication. In that time, I chose these words in such a way that they are structurally interrelated, and when combined, they form sentences. Thus once you succeed in memorizing them, then you will be able to combine these words and form your own sentences. The words are spread over 20 pages. The words will also correspond easily in sentences, for example, enabling you to be able to ask simple questions, Introduction to the Program etc. I have also created Memorization Made Easy techniques for this program in order to help with the memorization of the vocabulary (Page #13). Please also see page #15, in order to gain proficiency in the Reading and Pronunciation of the Arabic Language, prior to starting this program. My book is intended for basic 'first person' vocal communication, meaning anyone can easily use it to 'get by' linguistically while visiting a foreign country, without learning the entire language. You will be 100 percent understandable to native speakers, which is your aim. One disclaimer: this is NOT a grammar book, though it does address minute and essential grammar rules (but keep your eyes peeled for grammar footnotes at the bottom of every page of the program). Therefore, understanding complex sentences with obscure words in the language is outside the scope of this book. People who have tried this method have been successful. In this program the Arabic Language is translated into Latin Alphabets (English Transliteration), so it is not a requirement to know the written form beforehand. By the time you finish this book, you will be almost entirely fluent and understandable in the Lebanese Arabic. This is the best basis to learn, not only the Arabic language but any language. THIS IS AN ENTIRELY REVOLUTIONARY NO-FAIL CONCEPT, and your ability to place all the pieces of the puzzle together, will come with GREAT ease. From the Inside Flap Lebanese Arabic is a Levantine dialect. The term Levantine derives from "Levant" which is the geographical region of the Eastern Mediterranean which encompasses Cyprus, Lebanon, Syria, Israel, Palestine, Jordan, and the Hatay Province of Southern Turkey. Several languages are spoken in the Levant, one of which is Lebanese Arabic. Lebanese Arabic descends from the traditional Arabic language, though there are many variables that affected the language's development. Most Lebanese speak the language, and Arabic remains its written form, despite past attempts by some to make an alphabet system using Latin letters. Some people view Lebanese as merely a dialect of Arabic, while others accept the language as unique. Either way, the word connotations vary in both languages, as does its syntax and vocabulary. Lebanese Arabic uses minute Turkish and Aramaic vocabulary and a little French. In general keep in mind Lebanese Arabic is not an official language, but rather a colloquial dialect. About the Author A sophisticated revolutionary system, like no other, designed to teach the reader how to become conversational in a foreign language.
