It has a brief section at the front looking at the History, Art and Culture of Cuba before looking at specific regions in greater depth. The section on Havana is quite good and has plenty of sight seeing suggestions and the other regional chapters show how diverse this country is and what it has to offer to all travellers. The photography is in colour throughout and although some images are a touch dated, overall they illustrate the book very well. There is a section at the back with travel tips and advice as well. This is a good entry level guidebook, but if you want more in-depth information as well as clearer and more engaging text I'd suggest the Lonely Planet guide to Cuba, and Havana more specifically, which offer all this information and more, in what I feel to be a better overall package. Feel free to check out my blog which can be found on my profile page.

The handy pocket-size guide is packed with useful information, tips and recommendations, accompanied by color photographs, charts and maps for the first-time traveller who wants to experience the major highlights that Cuba has to offer. This travel book surpasses other guides in that it incorporates essential information in an easy-to-carry and easy-to-read format that is attractive and useful at the same time. It provides a visitor with an invaluable introduction to Cuba by concisely highlighting the regions must see areas in a practical and user-friendly format, thus encouraging the tourist to make the most of his/her available time. All the essential information you need to get around an unfamiliar region is compacted into useful and practical At-a-Glance sections at the end of each chapter. The fold-out map of Cuba is ideal for tourists and visitors. In addition to the main map of Cuba, which highlights travelers scenic routes, it features 7 detailed area maps and 14 town plans.

From the Back Cover Practical, informative and user-friendly, this Globetrotter travel pack highlights all the major places of interest, describing their principal attractions and offering sound suggestions on where to tour, stay, eat, shop and relax
