Harvey Tripp and Margaret Tripp : CultureShock! Bahrain before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised CultureShock! Bahrain:

CultureShock! Bahrain gives you a deeper understanding of Bahraini customs and rules that are still based on the teachings of Islam, the main religion of the people. Although Islamic teachings are conservative, the social climate in Bahrain is fairly liberalised. This temperate society has allowed room for business growth and trade. Discover the rich traditions of Bahraini attire and the significance of the ubiquitous mosques in this small desert shaikdom. In CultureShock! Bahrain, gain insights into business etiquette and glean tips on socialising and settling in-all vital to setting up home and working in this rapidly developing Middle Eastern society.

About the AuthorHarvey Tripp is a graduate of the University of Melbourne, Australia and attended primary school in Bahrain. He spent most of his corporate life in international business holding senior management positions in major international consumer goods companies, including the management of their operations in Bahrain. Harvey has lectured on international business including topics such as how to do business in the Arabian Gulf at a number of Universities in Australia. He has also sat on the advisory boards of universities and other tertiary institutions to help develop their international business programmes. Harvey has been a consultant to small and medium sized businesses and has had interim executive assignments with corporations whose primary focus is international business. He has also been a director of small and medium sized Australian companies.
