At age 52, having never done more than a day's cycling at most, she set out to bike around the world alone. With a teddy bear attached to the wicker basket on the front of her bicycle, wearing pink socks and carrying high heels in her pack, she biked from England through the Middle East, across the Himalayas, through the Alaska/Canadian wilderness, across the desert of the American Southwest, and beyond. It's an amazing journey of the power of the human spirit when placed in the hand of God.
