From the Inside Flap This edition is dedicated to my father, Matthew Gandall, who passed away in September of 1996. Dad's love of life, travel and the beauty of nature was infectious. His distinct wit, intelligence and exuberant nature always drew people to him. My dad was an uncommon man from a common background. Self-educated and down-to-earth, he never failed to empathize with all the inequities inherent to the human condition. He always challenged mediocrity and served as a role model of distinction for me. Although he is gone and truly missed, I will always remember and love him for these gifts and the many happy memories he gave me. Ann M. Gandall Castillo- Kelly
