so this trip was not some lark that he dreamed up to fill some leisure time he had. His writing style is very fluid and always left me waiting for what was to happen on the next leg of his journey. The inclusion of journal entries from his daughter lets you experience the trip through an entirely different lens, one filled with innocence and wonder. I wish I had the brass to attempt something as bold as what this man has done, and then to be able to eloquently condense the experience into a thoughtful and mesmerizing narrative. Well done, Mr Tash! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. If you have young kids, you will like this book By Joann Takata You will never read a travelogue with so much honesty. Sometimes traveling is stressful, unpleasant and you just wish you could go home. Joe Tash tells us about the mishaps and the fearful moments. But this is also a sweet story about family members who love each other and can deal with whatever comes their way. Readable and enjoyable.

If you've ever fantasized about quitting your job and setting out to see the world, this book is for you. Learn how to plan and execute a family trip around the world, from choosing an itinerary to arranging for home-schooling to finding the best travel and health insurance. We'll also bring readers along for the best of our travel experiences in South America, Western and Eastern Europe, India, Thailand, Cambodia, Hong Kong and Tokyo. We came within 10 feet of a wild tiger while riding in an open jeep in India and experienced a serious "electrical malfunction" on a jetliner at 35,000 feet. We ate roasted guinea pig and fried crickets and dined on a floating restaurant in a bay in southern Thailand. We danced on the tables at Oktoberfest in Munich and became stranded in the middle of Lake Titicaca, between Peru and Bolivia, when the engine of our dilapidated tour boat died. When it was over, we'd visited 19 countries on three continents, snapped 5,000 photos and gathered countless memories on our journey of a lifetime.
