The Historical Society of Frederick County : Frederick County (MD) (Images of America) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Frederick County (MD) (Images of America):

Frederick County is the crossroads of American history. Established in 1748, Maryland's largest county boasts some of the major building blocks of our country: the National Road, the CO Canal, and the BO Railroad. The images in this volume illustrate the lives of everyday people, from the daily chores on a rural farm to the urbane pastimes of Frederick residents. The cameras lens provides a unique opportunity to look back in time and view a devastating fire in Braddock Heights, see Confederate troops marching to battle through Frederick, and witness the inaugural run of the Frederick Middletown Railway. Included are places and events that make Frederick Countys history distinct yet truly all-American.
