Shawn Blore, Alexandra de Vries, Eliot Greenspan, Charlie O'Malley, Jisel Perilla, Neil Edward Schlecht, Kristina Schreck : Frommer's South America (Frommer's Complete Guides) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Frommer's South America (Frommer's Complete Guides):

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. another great framers bookBy hollyc360My favorite part is in the beginning when they list the best travel experiences. The hardest part for me of traveling is to rule out places and figure out what is best for me on my time frame and I find Frommers helpful on that. I hadn't planned on Peru but now seriously considering it!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A Must ReadBy Norma ZarlowFor anyone traveling to South America, this is the book we should be reading. If you would like to do some of your own planning, research, and discovery, it will save you time and money.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. great travel guideBy Susan M.very accurate information. I went to south america in 2011 and found this guide very helpful. Als o bought one as a guft

Find great deals and book your trip at Frommers.comAbout the AuthorA native of California, Shawn Blore (Brazil) has lived and worked in a half dozen countries and traveled in at least 50 more (but whos counting?). Long a resident of Vancouver, Shawn has for the past few years made his home in Rio de Janeiro. He is an awardwinning magazine writer and the author of Vancouver: Secrets of the City and co-author of Frommers Brazil and Frommers Portable Rio de Janeiro. Alexandra de Vries (Brazil) made her first journey to Brazil at the ripe old age of 1 month. (Alas, few of her food reviews from that trip survive.) In the years since, Alexandra has returned many times to travel, explore, and live in this amazing country. Alexandra co-writes Frommers Brazil and Frommers Portable Rio de Janeiro about her alltime favorite place to visit. Eliot Greenspan (Ecuador, Venezuela) is a poet, journalist, and travel writer who took his backpack and typewriter the length of Mesoamerica before settling in Costa Rica in 1992. Since then, he has traveled almost ceaselessly around Latin America, writing articles and guidebooks to feed his travel habit. He feels particularly at home in the neotropicsin its rain and cloud forests, on its rivers, and under its seas. Eliot is the author of Frommers Ecuador, Frommers Costa Rica and Frommers Belize. Charlie OMalley (Argentina, Bolivia, Paraguay, Uruguay) is a writer and wine enthusiast who can be found living in Mendoza, Argentina, when hes not traveling the rest of South America. Jisel Perilla (Colombia) worked with a nonprofit microcredit organization in Medelln, Colombia, and has written about, lived in, and traveled throughout much of Latin America. She currently resides in the Washington, D.C., area and was at work on Frommers Panama as this book went to press. Neil E. Schlecht (Peru) first trekked to Machu Picchu in 1983 as a college student, spending his junior year abroad in Quito, Ecuador. The author of a dozen travel guides (including Frommers Peru and Spain For Dummies), as well as articles on art and culture and art catalogue essays, and a photographer, he has lived for extensive periods in Brazil and Spain. He now resides in northwestern Connecticut. Kristina Schreck (Chile) has traveled extensively throughout Latin America and has lived and worked in Argentina and Chile for 8 years. She is the former managing editor of Adventure Journal magazine and is co-author of the first edition of Frommers Chile Easter Island. Kristina currently resides in Santiago and the Andes, where she works yearround for Ski Portillo (and although she thinks it is the greatest ski resort in the world, to be fair, she asked an independent, impartial source to edit the Chile skiing coverage in this guide).
