Tom Le Mesurier : The HUNT Rio De Janeiro (Hunt Guides) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The HUNT Rio De Janeiro (Hunt Guides):

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. "Authentically Different" Indeed!By C. D. PerryReceived today my copy of the Hunt Guide to Rio, which I bought for a trip to Rio in August for the Olympics. The Hunt Guides are ultimate"insider guides," with recommendations of restaurants, bars, street food, local markets and tourist sites curated by a local authority. This one is a great example of the form. Tom Le Mesurier, an expat Brit, has maintained the website "Eat Rio" for several years, and his nose for finding the best new and traditional spots is unrivaled. I am looking forward to following his leads.

Bringing you an insider look at the 2016 Summer Olympics host city, The HUNT team carefully selected 80 or so unique, authentic local Rio De Janeiro businesses that range from eye-popping and brand spankin new to deeply patinated and way off the beaten track, funky and unexpected to chic and shiny. We'll help you navigate this marvelous city, unearthing its hidden gems and local favorites. Over the last decade, our guides have become the go-to source for a worldwide community of locals and travelers who seek out genuine, intriguing independent businesses.

About the AuthorIn 2009, Tom Le Mesurier left London looking for adventure. He spent the next year traveling through South and Central America until a chance meeting with a Brazilian journalist in Nicaragua led him to Rio de Janeiro. He fell in love with the journalist and her city; four short months later they were married, and Tom was taking Portuguese lessons. Today, Tom takes guests on culinary walking tours while sharing restaurant recommendations on his website, Eat Rio (eatrio.net). When it comes to finding new bars and restaurants, Tom likes to think of himself as a dedicated researcher.
